

The INd Print Project is a twelve print limited edition suite produced in collaboration with Christopher Shore. Each INd print is derived from a stratiform drawing constructed of previous marking episodes that have been either converted into corrupted image patterns through a computer anomaly or extraction patterns, which are distilled digitally from images of existing drawings. The project began with the creation of the black and white digital prints and finished with the monochromatic intaglio edition. The placement below follows the project's timeline.
